... GOES ABROAD!

CITY LINK: COPENHAGEN - HAMBURG

The 29th – 30th of November 2012, Givrum.nu (DK) will host a meet-up in Hamburg where 50 project makers from Copenhagen will visit user-driven projects in Hamburg and kick-start a bottom-up city-development process in the fantastic Oberhafen area.

With this cultural collaboration – CITY LINK – we are taking the first steps in forming a cultural connection between the two cities – now and in the future!

This is a great opportunity to meet new people, get inspired and take part in an international network of grassroots projects.

If you have a project you would like to showcase or do you have thoughts and ideas about Oberhafen - please join in and shape the future of your city! Party with us on Thursday 29th and attend our workshop on Friday 30th of November.

The 19th – 20th of December 2012 you are invited to Copenhagen to further establish collaborations, take part in the launch of the website for City Link and see different projects in Copenhagen. The trip by bus and accommodation is free.

HOW TO PARTICIPATE?

- Send a short description of yourself and a maybe a projects of yours - pictures and videos are very welcome!
- Send it to: info@givrum.nu
- Deadline: Tuesday the 20th of November 2012
- And put a big X in your calendar on the 29th - 30th of November + 19th - 20th of December 2012

WE WILL TAKE CARE OF:

- Transport of the participants with bus and accommodation in Copenhagen for free
- A website where the participating projects are presented
- An application to take care of fundings for a further collaboration in 2013
